Art Unit: 1732

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Kohara et al.

The applied reference discloses forming light guide plates (see col. 4, lines 16-26) by molding alicyclic (ie, aliphatic groups linked to a ring structure—see col. 4, lines 47+) olefin materials (col. 8, lines 10+) which have been prepared as set forth in the instant claims and specification. Since the materials used to make the light guide plate in the reference appear to be the same as the instant, it would appear that the light guide plate and method of making same are taught in Kohara et al. Also, it should be noted that even if some of the process conditions as set forth in instant claims 3-9 are not precisely taught, the particular material may be met and hence there would be no difference between the light guide plate of Kohara et al and the instant. At any rate, it is submitted that the instant light guide plate and method of making same are either anticipated by the applied reference or obvious thereover. Given the clear disclosure of the cyclic olefins of Kohara et al, it is submitted incumbent on applicant to point out whatever differences there are between the instant copolymer and that taught in the applied reference. Clearly, the applied reference uses the cyclic olefins to make a light guide plate for liquid crystal displays.
